As Death Struck In Ecuador . . .

The tower of La Merced Church in Latacunga, summer resort south of Quito, crumbled into the street during the earthquake which hit Ecuador last Friday. The latest official estimates of the toll are: 6,000 dead, 150,000 homeless, $20,000,000 damage.

Old Problems Rock Opening Of Assembly

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
STRASBOURG (UP)—Partitions of Ireland and proposed admission of Germany threatened to plunge the opening session of the new European Assembly today into stormy debate.

The assembly, sounding board of western Europe and parliamentary branch of the Council of Europe, met for the first time in the old Strasbourg University building. The 101 delegates present represented 12 European nations.

Among them was former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who was reported preparing to demand Germany's admission to the European Council despite the objection of his own country's government.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was understood to believe the admission of Germany would be premature. Any such move at this time, he thought, would bring a French request for admission of the Saar as an independent nation.

Britain regards the admission of the Saar as undesirable, particularly just before Sunday's German elections.

Ireland was expected to raise the partition of Ireland on the assembly floor despite the refusal of the committee of foreign ministers to include it on the agenda. The Irish were reported working behind the scenes in an attempt to line up the two-third vote necessary to add an item to the agenda once the foreign ministers have rejected it.

Ireland wants Northern Ireland to be declared part of the Irish Republic rather than, as at present, a part of the United Kingdom.

The Irish delegation includes former Prime Minister Eamon de Valera as well as Prime Minister Sean MacBride. Both are ardent foes of partition.

Seven-Week Aussie Walkout Collapses As Miners Vote

SYDNEY (UP)—The seven-week-old Communist-led Australian coal strike collapsed today when miners throughout the country voted to return to work by more than two to one.

The vote was 5,403 to 2,343.

Acting President R. Hamilton of the miners' federation said the federation's central council would meet Friday or Saturday to issue a back-to-work order.

It was the first time in Australian labor history that the rank and file of the miners' union rejected the proposals of their leaders.

Communist leaders of the strike had insisted that the miners remain out until the government met their full demands for wage increases, long-term vacations and nationalization of the industry.

Although only 23,000 miners were on strike, the lack of coal paralyzed all Australia, causing industrial shutdowns that threw an estimated 750,000 persons out of work.

SERVICES RATIONED

Electric and gas services were drastically rationed in the middle of the most severe winter Australia has seen for years, bringing hardship to the entire country.

Government authorities refused to meet the miners' demands, charging the strike was a political manoeuvre by the Australian Communist Party.

Government Information Minister A. A. Calwell in a recent speech pledged the government would break the strike first and "wipe out" the Australian Communist Party later.

British Merchants Revolt Against Clothing Price Cut

LONDON (UP)—Britain's shopkeepers revolted today against a Labor government order to cut clothing and shoe prices 5 per cent.

The National Chamber of Trade formally told its 250,000 shopkeeper members to ignore the Labor government's order to reduce prices on all utility clothing and footwear by one shilling in the pound next month.

The chamber contended that the official notification was sent out after the chamber voted Tuesday night at an indignation meeting to maintain present prices unless the government consulted it before the reduction order becomes effective.

The resolution adopted by the delegates accused the Labor government of ordering the price reduction as a vote-getting manoeuvre "at the sole expense" of retail traders. Britain will hold a general election next year to elect a new Parliament.

The chamber contended that Harold Wilson, president of the government's Board of Trade, should not have ordered the price cuts without consulting the shopkeepers' representatives.

All clothing manufacturers, even Mayfair's smartest dress houses, are required to make a certain percentage of utility clothing for sale in retail stores at rock-bottom prices. A lower rate of purchase tax also is charged for utility clothing.

Convents In Ireland Post 24-Hour Guards As Maniac Feared

DUBLIN (UP)—All Roman Catholic convents in Ireland were ordered by police today to post 24-hour guards against possible attack by a suspected maniac who seriously injured a nun.

The alleged maniac, centre of a nationwide manhunt since he broke into two convents, was reported to be a deranged priest who escaped from an institution near Dublin about two weeks ago.

Sister Veronica O'Neil was stabbed by the intruder at 2 a.m. Sunday in Poor Clare's convent here. Her wrist was also broken before other nuns drove the intruder off.

A priest in West Meath, 50 miles west of Dublin, reported a similar attack in a Poor Clare's convent there Monday night.

He said an intruder scaled the convent wall and was moving down a dark corridor toward the nuns' sleeping quarters when a sister saw him. She grappled with the man who jumped through an open window, leaving his jacket behind, the priest said.

Chinese Capital To Remain In Canton For Few Weeks

By SPENCER MOOSA
CANTON (AP)—Best estimates here today were that Canton would continue as provisional capital of Nationalist China another three to six weeks.

Gloom reigns among nationalist officials. Only a few weeks ago they thought something might still be done to turn the tide against the Reds. Today even the most optimistic have grave forebodings over the future.

There is haste in the manner in which official archives are being packed for the long road back to Chungking, the inland wartime capital from which Chiang Kai-shek and his government returned triumphantly to Nanking a little more than three years ago.

Under present plans the seat of government will be established at Chungking. But the reins will be held by Chiang at Taipei, capital of the redoubt of Formosa.

Several foreign firms in Canton have closed rather than face the uncertainties of doing business under Red rule.

Most of the embassy offices in Canton intend to close before the Reds come. Various consulates, such as the British, American, French and Dutch will remain here.

Many non-official Chinese are puzzled. They do not know what to do. If they lack the means to take refuge in the British colony of Hongkong or Portuguese Macao it means staying in Canton and risking the perils of war—if the Nationalists fight for the city—and the hazards of business afterwards.

To many officials, too, the choice is a hard one. Some see Chungking as simply another stopover on the road to complete Nationalist collapse and wonder whether it wouldn't be better to stay in Canton and get it over with.

Chinese Reds Hammering At Gates Of Two Bastions

HONGKONG (UP)—Chinese Communist troops are hammering at the gates of two Nationalist bastions more than 1,000 miles apart in southeast and northwest China, it was reported today.

The cities involved are Kanchow, in Kiangsi province, and Lanchow, in Moslem northwest China.

Local authorities were reported to have ordered government agencies evacuated from both places.

Weather Forecast

Cloudy with occasional light showers today and Thursday; light winds, little change in temperature. Low tonight, 52; high Thursday, 62.

New Earth Tremors Pillaging Spreads Panic In Ecuador

QUITO (AP)—New earth tremors and pillaging by unruly Indians spread fear and panic today among the thousands of survivors left homeless by Ecuador's destructive earthquake.

Official government estimates of the death toll in Friday's quake rose to 6,000. But no one knows for sure how many perished in the great piles of rubble that litter some 50 demolished towns in the populous Andes mountain region south of here.

Fresh tremors Tuesday tumbled weakened walls in Ambato and other cities, adding to the terror of some 150,000 homeless.

Groups of workers attempting to dig their way through the block highway to Pelileo, 100 miles south of Quito, were reported buried under a landslide loosed by the new tremors.

Shoot-to-kill orders were issued to troops guarding Pelileo against looting by the wild tribe of Salasaca Indians.

Continuing landslides and sulphurous fumes oozing from jagged crevices have terrorized the countryside who escaped the worst effects of the shocks.

This correspondent flew over the area Tuesday to Ambato with some of the United States air force transports helping out in the "little airlift" which is dropping food and medical supplies to isolated towns.

Pelileo, a town of 3,500 population, resembles a garbage dump surrounded by bright green grass and trees. Not a house escaped damage. Block after block is a jumble of adobe walls and bamboo poles.

The road from the dirt airstrip outside Ambato, a provincial capital of 35,000 population 50 miles south of Quito, was lined with men, women and children sitting dazed and staring into space.

The plazas of the city were jammed with people huddling under bedsheets and spigads.

Rescue workers still searched the ruins, passing stones from hand to hand along a line of men and women. Low walls went up from the workers and on-lookers each time a body was found.

The great cathedral of Ambato has only jagged sections of its walls still stretching up to the sky. Within the broken shell is a huge pile of tumbled stone and plaster still covering the bodies of more than a score of children who were buried while attending church services.

The ruin is not confined to the towns. Hundreds of fertile farms, large and small, have been scored by earth upheavals or flooded by lakes caused when rivers were dammed by landslides.

Bill To Tighten Up Military Direction Becomes Law In U.S.

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman today signed into law a bill tightening up the direction of the nation's military affairs.

The newly-created department of defence speedily whipped into the job of further unifying the armed forces.

Only a few minutes after the President signed the new unification act, Secretary of Defence Louis Johnson created a defence management committee and appointed Gen. Joseph T. McNarney as chairman, or "unity expediter."

Johnson leaned on Mr. Truman's desk during the signing and beamed happily when the President said he believed the act "will permit us to make real progress toward building a balanced and effective national defence."

Mr. Truman had only one complaint about the bill. He said one provision which continues restrictions on the membership of the national security council was "unfortunate" and represented a "backward step" in the generally progressive legislation.

The legislation creates a new department of defence with Johnson as its secretary. Herebefore the agency was the national military establishment.

Vehicle Crashes Bridge Abutment At Bloomingdale

From A.P. and U.P. Dispatches
BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Fifteen charred bodies were recovered from the wreckage of a Greyhound bus which burned today after hitting a bridge abutment near here. None has yet been identified.

Coroner Robert W. Lyons of Monroe County said 15 would be the death toll. Twelve other persons were injured in the crash and are in hospital.

Driver Wayne Cramer of Indianapolis, one of the survivors, said a front tire may have blown out, causing him to lose control of the bus.

After striking the abutment it skidded 150 feet down a winding highway and came to rest on its left side, blocking the emergency door.

Flames enveloped the vehicle almost immediately. The driver said he and "two or three" passengers got out the front door. The other survivors escaped through a rear window which a passenger kicked out.

The bus was still smoldering hours after the wreck. The centre section was burned down to a mass of twisted metal in which charred bodies could be seen.

It was feared identification would be a slow process. Some of them, officers said, would have to be cut out of the wreckage with torches.

'Walked Through Flames'

Wells Richardson, 18, of Evansville, Ind., one of the survivors, said he didn't know exactly how he got off the bus but that he "walked through five feet of flames."

Richardson told Glen Van Horn, manager of radio station WTTS in Bloomington, that he was doing when the crash occurred.

Survivors said Cramer, the driver, personally saved many of the passengers. They said he entered the flaming wreck repeatedly to drag out anyone he could reach.

Mrs. Lucille Melton, 39, Mt. Vernon, Ind., screamed to him that she left her infant daughter Judith Ann, in the bus.

Cramer climbed back through the smashed and burning wreckage, found the child, and tossed her into the arms of her mother.

Other survivors said the body of a "huge man" blocked the regular front entrance and that Cramer literally "ripped the clothes off him" in his frenzy to get the corpse clear of the exit.

Deputy sheriff Fred Mills said about half the survivors got out of the bus through a hole in the windshield directly in front of the steering wheel. Others fled through the hole kicked in the rear window.

Highway 37, on which the crash occurred is a two-lane pavement. It has many hills and curves, but the crash scene was fairly straight and level. A program has been started on the stretch between Indianapolis and Bloomington to eliminate dangerous curves and grades.

Hawaii Government Begins Taking Over Stevedoring

By WILLARD D. EBERHART
HONOLULU, T.H. (UP)—The Territorial government began taking over stevedoring operations on the strike-bound Hawaii docks today under the terms of an executive order from Governor Ingram Stainback.

At the same time the government pushed its recruiting campaign to line up longshoremen to handle valuable cargoes on ships tied up in the 102-day strike of C.I.O. longshoremen.

Two hundred and ninety-five men who took loyalty oaths or signed non-Communist affidavits have been hired already. With 22,000 unemployed in Honolulu because of the strike and a military retrenchment program, the government's recruiting job was not considered difficult.

Stainback's executive order directed Ben Rush, manager and chief engineer of the Territorial Harbor Board, to seize and operate the stevedoring equipment of seven struck longshore firms.

Two specific seizure orders were issued today. One named Castle & Cooke Terminals Ltd., which does 90 per cent of the territory's stevedoring business. The other named McCabe-Hamilton-Benny, which has been handling military cargo.

The equipment of five other companies probably will be taken over later today or Thursday.

Rush was empowered to hire workers, including strikers, but will bypass existing contracts between union and management.

As chief of the territorial longshore agency he will direct stevedoring operations which the companies would have performed if they were not struck. But because of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union's ban against any of its men working for the government, it was believed Rush would have to recruit an entire new labor force.

The seizure order, empowered under a law passed by an emergency session of the Territorial Legislature last Saturday, was signed by Stainback Tuesday.

New Tremors, Pillaging Spread Panic

Hawaii Seizes Docks

HONOLULU (AP)—Seizure of Honolulu's two strike-bound stevedoring firms carried Hawaii's 102-day waterfront tie-up to the show-down stage today.

Gov. Ingram M. Stainback signed orders late Tuesday for the territorial government's takeover of two of the island's seven struck dock companies.

The striking C.I.O. International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union awaited the start of government stevedoring operations to defy the territory.

ILL.W.U. leader Jack Hall said the union would start a court challenge to the territory's new dock seizure law within hours after the government puts its longshoremen to work.

Hall also said the C.I.O. Marine Engineers' executive board in Washington ordered its members not to sail ships from behind ILL.W.U. picket lines.

Stainback said the law clearly gives his government authority to act against any engineers refusing to sail ships.

ILL.W.U. officials have threatened repeatedly to spread the strike to the mainland if the government went into the stevedoring business.

Slides, Fumes Oozing From Crevices Cause Terror In Ecuador

Prospectors Call North Sask. Area Uranium Hot Spot

REGINA (CP)—After a two-month uranium search in northeastern Saskatchewan near the rim of the North West Territories, two bronzed young prospectors were in Regina today with some pitchblende samples they think are "hot."

The pair, Austin Johnston of North Battleford, and William Sharpe, a Vancouver prospector, were registering claims and awaiting reports from Ottawa on samples of radioactive rock which they airmailed earlier.

The teams have staked claims in the Black Lake area of Saskatchewan, about 100 miles east of Goldfields. Samples brought back show high Geiger counter readings but a spectrographic analysis made in the east will determine actual content of radioactive material. Their samples come from an area in which two other uranium finds were reported last month.

"We brought back samples from two groups of claims," Mr. Johnston said, "and we have good showings in each of our groups." About 10 prospecting parties were working in the Black Lake area which he termed "the hot spot of the world" as far as uranium was concerned.

MAINLY ABOUT CLOCKS

IT ISN'T OFTEN that I go to an auction sale of antiques but whenever I do, I am fascinated by the grandfather clocks that occasionally appear.

It may be that the old song, favorite at community sings, about the old clock that went tick-tock but "stopped short, never to go again, on the night that the old man died" has something to do with my interest, but these old timepieces always intrigue me.

And make me wonder about the changes that have taken place during the many hours their hands have ticked away, the different owners their brass faces have seen, the different hands that have wound their interiors and set their figured faces right.

TIMING DEVICES

LOOKING AT AN OLD clock the other day, it struck me that the measurement of time is a science that has taken centuries to perfect since the days of the sundial.

So I did some research and found that the first mechanical clock, worked by a train of geared wheels and pinions driven by a weight, dates back to the 13th century. And it wasn't until 1657 that a Dutch scientist, Christian Huygens, invented the pendulum which made it possible to regulate the clock.

At first, all pendulum clocks had short—or bob—pendulums. Then an English scientist, named Robert Hooke, in 1670 found that a longer pendulum, made of standard length of 39.1 inches and requiring one second to complete each full swing, ensured the clock keeping better time.

"GRANDFATHERS" BORN

THAT LED to the invention of the grandfather clock, for the use of the longer pendulum and heavier weights made it difficult to fix the clock to the wall—as had been the custom.

So a pillar-like case of wood was made for its support. In the 18th century, when the grandfather clock was first made in large numbers in England, the design became standardized to a large degree.

It had a 12-inch dial; it had to be wound once a week; it struck the hours, and usually had a small slot in the dial which showed the date of the month. A calendar was important in the days when newspapers were rare and printed calendars and diaries non-existent.

ASTROLOGICAL ART

SPEAKING OF CLOCKS, reminds me of the famous astrological clock of St. John, Besancon, in France. It is 15 feet high and seven feet wide, and is said to give more accurate information than any other clock in the world. It took a Frenchman, named Verite, years to make, and has 30,000 parts. At the top stands the Madonna. At mid-day, when the figure of Christ rises from the tomb in a niche below her, the Madonna raises her sceptre. The 12 Apostles come out, in turn, to strike the hour.

Other dials on the clock tell you the time in Calcutta, Moscow, London, and a dozen other places. You can find out exactly where the sun, moon, earth and other planets are at any moment, what day of the week it is, what month, and the time when the sun rises.

MONTREAL SPECIAL

OF A VASTLY DIFFERENT kind is the famous floral clock which has been a summer feature of Westmount Park, Montreal, since the year 1926, and is unique in Canada.

Its diameter is 19 feet and it is planted in dwarf plants that will stand continual clipping. Six thousand of these plants are used in the design and even in the hands, which are raised. The clock has the reputation of keeping good time, although in unseasonably damp weather the hands become somewhat heavy.

Edinburgh, Scotland, also has a famous clock garden, and there are two in the United States, one at Washington, D.C., and one at Springfield, Mass., all helping to "pass the happy hours away."

Several foreign firms in Canton have closed rather than face the uncertainties of doing business under Red rule.

Most of the embassy offices in Canton intend to close before the Reds come. Various consulates, such as the British, American, French and Dutch will remain here.

Many non-official Chinese are puzzled. They do not know what to do. If they lack the means to take refuge in the British colony of Hongkong or Portuguese Macao it means staying in Canton and risking the perils of war.

If the Nationalists fight for the city—and the hazards of business afterwards.

To many officials, too, the choice is a hard one. Some see Chungking as simply another stopover on the road to complete Nationalist collapse and wonder whether it wouldn't be better to stay in Canton and get it over with.

The following films will be shown at the Cameron Bandstand in Beacon Hill Park Thursday, at approximately 9:30: "Musical Overture," "Sands of Central Asia," "Grain That Built a Hemisphere," "Little Cheez," "Maple Sugar Time," "Ukrainian Winter Holiday."

In the first annual fishing derby of the Naval Motor Transport section of H.M.C. Dockyard held at Saanich Inlet over the weekend, Ernie Faulkner was the winner with a 16½-pound salmon. Over 80 took part in the event. Mrs. W. Campbell took the top prize for the women participants.

Refugee Dies Trying To Avoid Deportation; Another Recaptured

MONTREAL (CP) — Two European refugees, denied admission to Canada, Tuesday night jumped off the freighter Anunciada on which they were being deported and one of them was drowned, it was learned here today.

Leonard Galwitz, 24-year-old Austrian passport clerk, was said to have reached shore at St. Nicholas, Que., 130 miles down the St. Lawrence River from Montreal but his Polish friend, Paul Radowicz, was drowned.

At Quebec, R.C.M.P. said they have arrested Galwitz and turned him over to immigration authorities for deportation. Police said they made the arrest at St. Nicholas after Galwitz made his way to a farmhouse.

The two, who unsuccessfully sought admission to Canada as political refugees, were deported Sunday night aboard the freighter which brought them here in July.

Galwitz claimed to have helped spirit more than 1,000 of his countrymen out from behind the iron curtain. He said the Soviet police were looking for him and expressed belief before he was deported that they would both be put in jail when the Anunciada reached Antwerp.

The two fled Austria this year dressed as women.

On reaching Canada the two were turned over to immigration authorities and given a hearing after which their deportation was ordered.

Monday night the two friends stood in the stern of the ship, shook hands and plunged overboard.

"We were a short distance from the ship when I saw Paul call for help," Galwitz said. "I shouted to him to try and keep going—that we were near shore and freedom. I was only a few feet away from him. When I turned around I saw him smile weakly. His pale face was lit by the glare from a navigating light that went on and off."

"Then he disappeared," Galwitz said, "I felt weak when I thought he had drowned. I swam around for three hours, calling his name. But I couldn't find any trace of him."

Pasteur Institute Working On Serum To Prolong Life

PARIS (AP)—The Pasteur Institute is working on a "youth serum" to prolong life, a spokesman said Tuesday. Work has been under way about a year on guinea pigs and mice.

"The work is in an experimental stage and has not reached definite results," the informant added.

The objective is to find a serum which would restore "tired glands" to new vigor.

The informant said that if experiments progress at the rate attained so far, a serum might be ready in 1950.

Numerous serums and treatments to extend life or restore vigor have been announced in various countries. None so far has lived up to expectations.

One serum was developed by the late Professor Alexander A. Bogomolets of Russia. His serum, technically known as anti-reticular cytotoxic serum, was designed to stimulate the body's connective tissue, which forms a kind of elastic skeleton holding the body and its organs together.

Argentina's War Wealth Wasted, Claims South American Visitor

Argentina, second largest country in South America, is close to bankruptcy, says an Argentine visitor to this city, Harry Bocking, of Buenos Aires.

Fortunes made by the Argentine government during the Second World War have disappeared and the country today is in sad financial straits.

"Argentina's neutrality enabled her to become probably one of the richest countries in the world," Mr. Bocking said during an interview today. "She accumulated reserves which overwhelmed even Argentine authorities."

These resources, he said, have gone into bad investments.

Following the war, the Argentine government tied up much of its money in war surplus material which today stands unused and rusting.

Mr. Bocking had this to say about Argentina's present system of government: "It's a peculiar dictatorship which from time to mented with aca, but have not reported any real benefits from its use.

HARRY BOCKING

time shows flashes of democracy."

He said the government leader, President Juan Peron, appeared to be straightforward but labelled Peron's ministers as "sallies, not of the very best."

He said the lower classes of Argentina had been responsible for putting the Peronista Party into power. Recently, however, party support from this quarter has been waning.

He said growth in opposition strength, as seen in the last provincial election, startled those in the government.

Possibility that the Peronista government could be overthrown by revolution was ruled out by Mr. Bocking. He said it was unlikely that any such uprising as this would have little chance of success.

The present government is supported by at least 85 per cent of the army, he explained.

PERON TO QUIT?

While the president's position is safe in this regard, there is talk in some Argentine circles that Peron may quit before 1950. Mr. Bocking himself believes there is a good chance of this even though Peron only last week was nominated to stand for reelection in 1952.

It is known, Mr. Bocking said, that the Perons have money in Switzerland and Italy.

Turning to talk of business conditions, Mr. Bocking, who is Argentine superintendent for the Singer Sewing Machine Company, told of numerous restrictions which work hardships on the country's commerce.

Imports are greatly restricted. Canadian and U.S. goods are practically unobtainable. British goods have been hard to get but with the recent signing of a new Anglo-Argentine trade agreement, the republic will receive oil and machinery from the United Kingdom in return for meat.

Big American companies, having plants in Argentina are closing up and pulling out. General Motors and Ford corporations are just about on their last legs in the country, Mr. Bocking said, and it is expected that they, too, will be closing shortly.

Cars, by the way, are selling in Argentina for between $9,000 and $12,000. Even then, to get one, it is necessary to have influential friends.

LOW LIVING STANDARD

Dealing with Argentina's living standard, Mr. Bocking said it now has a standard considerably higher than what it was ten years ago but still behind that of Mexico.

The average Argentinian does not worry too much about how he lives as long as he has meat and a bottle of wine, both of which are very cheap.

Black markets do land-office businesses in all main cities, Mr. Bocking went on to say. Agencies have been set up in Buenos Aires which deal exclusively in currency.

While the official rate of exchange is $4.89 (Argentine) for $1 (American), the agencies have their own scale of $9.20 (Argentine) for $1 (American).

NARROWING THE ISSUE

STIPPED OF UNPLEASANT PERSONAL REFERENCES AND OF THE ELEMENT OF RUMOR that always accompanies such disputes, the Saanich fire protection controversy this week appears to have boiled down to one important point. It was enunciated by Fire Chief Joseph Law to the council Monday night when he voiced his conviction that equipment for emergency service should be the best that money could buy but that he believed "too much emphasis is put on saving the dollar instead of the life." Justification for his position was admitted by one councillor, who also noted that only a certain amount of money was available for such services.

The situation in Saanich poses specific problems. In that municipality facilities are required—if the service is to be adequate—not only to combat outbreaks in the urban districts, but also in the rural areas, where different apparatus is essential. And the equipment can only be furnished by purchases made by non-elastic Saanich tax dollars.

Under these conditions, it seems to us, the folly of maintaining independent municipal forces in the more densely settled residential sections of Greater Victoria should be brought to an end. We have yet to hear any valid argument against co-ordination of protective services for the city and the inner wards of Saanich. If such arrangements were made, rural protection could be the subject of concentrated study, divorced from consideration of factors of concern only to urban wards.

Of course this would be another step toward unification of services. Of course the extension of greater service to inner Saanich might be accompanied by higher costs. But that improvement could unquestionably be effected without the expense that would be entailed should Saanich raise its own standards while continuing to "go it alone."

The measure of loyalty shown by the Saanich Fire Department to the municipal council, and the confidence of the latter in the former, will be generally appreciated, and imply a satisfactory relationship as far as it goes. But Saanich knows it has an unnecessarily serious fire protection problem on its hands, and a means of working toward a solution is available if parochial pride is submerged in the interests of community welfare.

GOOD NEIGHBORS

FROM TIME TO TIME THE PEOPLES OF the world are shocked by the death and destruction inflicted by natural disaster—flood, famine, earthquake, fire or other calamity. And there then occurs the spectacle—with hopeful significance for the future of the human race—of men and women of many lands rushing supplies and assistance to the stricken area. There have been many examples of such practical humanitarianism in the past. Today the South American republic of Ecuador, laboring under the onslaught of a severe earthquake, is the recipient of such help. Suffering thousands of deaths, and damage running into many millions of dollars, that country represents an opportunity for others to play the Good Samaritan. And we are told that tents, canned goods, medical supplies and other necessities are being sent to the shattered towns and villages; as authorities use the facilities of hastily marshalled aircraft to complete the deliveries. It is a warming spectacle for a world so recently engaged in creating just such death and destruction as it now attempts to alleviate. Could it be taken as a promise that some day the spirit of mutual help will win out over the code of the jungle?

LIFE IN A BARREL

WE NOTE WITHOUT ANY PARTICULAR excitement or interest the current return to the old pastime of going over Niagara Falls in a barrel. Nothing appears to us a more futile or less valuable endeavor, yet its perennial popularity, revived from time to time by intrepid but otherwise apparently aimless adventurers, seems never to die. The old-timers—both male and female—who exhibited their daring by cavorting on a tightrope over the famed waterway, could at least be admired for their skill. It required no small ability—of a specialized nature, of course—to push a wheelbarrow out on the cable, or fry and eat an egg, or juggle a few assorted tea-things. But the man who locks himself in a barrel—and the vessel rarely looks much like that plebeian container—shows no skill, ability or finesse. He is stowed away like a fish in a tin or a cigar in a humidor, with as little control over his environment and, hence, as little responsibility for the outcome of his undertaking.

Psychologists might see in the present-day revival of the barrel-floaters a reflection of a modern trend. There can be no doubt that many a man today, unlike his pioneer forebears, is inclined to retire from the whirlpool and rapids of life, to enclose himself in a "barrel" of state planning and bureaucracy, and let the foaming tide take him where it will. If his life is wrecked, he himself remains blameless—the tide or the barrel were at fault. Meanwhile, wrapped in his personal doctrine or dogma, he has avoided the dangers and discomforts arising from ideological agoraphobia. He knows only the embracing darkness and blankness of the Niagara voyager, and sails through life with a minimum of effort and striving. At the end of the run kind hands open him up again to the light of day, to enjoy such delights as may be waiting. And there may be found some admirers to laud him, although for what we cannot imagine.

HIGHER PAY, NO JOB

VICTORIANS NOT DIRECTLY CONCERNED with the issues involved in differences between a local building supply firm and shinglers employed by it, will wonder which side, if any, benefits from acceptance by the company of the workers' demands for higher pay scales. A spokesman for the employers has announced that the terms of the shinglers would be met, but that when existing contracts had been filled, the company would withdraw from that line of business. If that position is maintained, it would appear that the workmen have priced themselves out of a job.

Under existing circumstances, it is probable that the shinglers will have little difficulty in finding work. Construction activity is still brisk enough to absorb a high volume of competent craftsmen. But what happens if other concerns follow the lead of the company in the recent case? Private interests can scarcely be expected to remain in business if the returns for their efforts are reduced to negligible proportions by high costs.

The time appears to have arrived when labor should give serious thought to the contribution it can make toward stabilization of employment. Surely a steady income somewhat below the maximum that unions can demand is better than no income at all after a brief period of employment at a higher scale. Shipyarders here have made the point to their union members, and the brief of the British Columbia coast lumber operators, presented in Vancouver the other day, advances similar arguments.

The workman is unquestionably worthy of his hire. But being worthy does not create jobs when those who make them lose the incentive to maintain operations.

PROVIDING LEADERSHIP NOW

AN OTTAWA ITEM BY THE CANADIAN Press indicates that Canadian authorities would welcome an opportunity to provide representation for the Dominion on a four-power High Command which could be set up under provisions of the Atlantic Pact. Such an operational body would assume charge of military forces acting under the alliance, and would hold the same relation to the 12-nation defence committee that a country's High Command bears to a Minister of Defence. Geographically and in war potential Canada is a strategic factor in the Atlantic defensive organization, although in the event of an outbreak of hostilities at the present time she would have to depend heavily on the armaments of her allies. On the basis of her importance in the Atlantic group—a basis which receives strong support from the record of her contributions in the recent conflict—this country might well form, with Britain, France and the United States, the nucleus about which will be developed the defensive preparations described in the Pact.

Reports that Canadian membership of the High Command has received the consent of European members of the alliance, have not been given official confirmation, but there is reason to believe that American military leaders who returned from the European scene this week after a rapid inspection of defence forces, had received an indication of such approval. Full discussion of the matter will take place in Washington later this month when the framework of the Pact is set up. But it is interesting to note that Canada's bid for such an international position is a far cry from the situation in 1914, when it was necessary for the Dominion to make it clear that she entered the war by her own decision and not automatically as an appendage of the British Parliament.

QUIET HEROISM

AT THIS SEASON EACH YEAR THERE comes to desks of newspaper editors throughout Canada the annual report of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. It is in many ways a routine document, listing activities for the preceding 12 months, and presenting financial accounts, together with brief resumes of programs undertaken by various divisions. But beyond this it brings with it a message of quiet heroism. Within its covers is summarized with extreme brevity the story of Canadians who lack the sense of sight but who are continually winning victories against their own darkness.

This year, as is customary, some space in the report is devoted to our more fortunate citizens who share their eyes with the afflicted. This is an unobtrusive service which reflects great credit on all who give their time to the task of aiding the sightless. It indicates, too, the satisfactions which may be derived by helping others who are trying courageously to adjust themselves to what we consider the normal way of life.

Many stories are left untold in the annual publication, but what is written is sufficient to inspire deep thankfulness in those who can see—a thankfulness which should be reflected in a wholesome willingness to assist those who cannot.

Educators are now proposing a 12-month school year with summer vacations curtailed. Who says that children haven't problems and worries?

The Choice

Royal Bank of Canada Letter

WE ARE inclined to avoid serious thought about freedom—as we do other fundamentals of life—until it is threatened. In view of what we see happening in the world today it is high time to ask: What is liberty? Can we keep it? What shall we do to make sure we do keep it.

The alternatives we face are freedom or non-freedom. We can have mankind dedicated to realization of the best cultural values, upholding human dignity, discharging individual responsibility, assuring judicial impartiality, and preferring the persuasion of tolerance to the compulsion of force. Or we can have men molded and shaped by the dictates of a supreme leader or a gang controlling the resources of a state; men so disciplined and directed from the cradle up that they automatically obey a word of command, however obnoxious.

WHATEVER soft language may be used in explaining their codes, we can have no faith whatever in the honesty of persons professing belief in human rights and at the same time subscribing to the doctrines of Marx, dictatorship, revolution and the one-party system of government.

Such a form of government is demeaning to human dignity. It asserts that "economics determines all human life"—a proposition to which even clever men may give offhand approval—but in doing so it succeeds simply in saying that men are moved to act, not on a basis of principles or any standard of morality, but by their material wants. It assumes that man is not interested in freedom, knowledge or religion, but only in a full stomach. It inhibits the free play of the spirit of inquiry, places blinders on the mind. It dare not allow deep philosophical thought or accurate historical analysis, because these would show up the barrenness and futility of the leader's notions.

PROGRESSIVE development under freedom is a far cry from the tendency of dictators to make citizens dependent on the state. To expect success or happiness out of dependency is to fly in the face of history.

Plutarch, who analysed the lives of leading Greeks and Romans in the first century, declared: "The first destroyer of the liberties of a people is he who first gave them bounties and largess." Referring to Athens about the time of Socrates, an historian writes: "More and more the state became a charitable institution, the chief object of which should be to provide for each citizen the most comfortable and the easiest life and the most entertainment possible." Half a century later every national policy was abandoned, and only material interests were promoted. They had bread and circuses, bounties, bonuses, doles and pensions; but it was easy for Philip of Macedonia to overrun them, secure the surrender of their political independence, and reduce them to vassals. For a modern example, look at Russia.

THE DUTY imposed upon government in a free society is not to take care of citizens, but to make it possible for the citizens to take care of themselves. Every man in a free society is a proprietor, and draws on the capital as he earns the right.

The approach of dictatorship in the life of a free people has always been stealthy. Government spending seems to promise economic prosperity, and the future looks bright. Under this hypnotic influence of something for nothing, masses of people lose sight of the fact that this is the process by which other free peoples lost their liberty.

THE PRICE of liberty is not only eternal vigilance but unceasing work. We are careless about making our principles known, about making sure they are kept in mind by governments, about seeing that every last one of them is observed on every occasion. Liberty must be struggled for, achieved and jealously guarded even in the homes of its friends. The maintenance of liberty has to be fought for every day afresh, lest the lazy acceptance of some particular imposition give a foothold to some party that will end up by imposing tyranny.

SOME of the greatest tragedies in history tell of the remorse of those peoples who did not realize the value of human freedom and personal liberty until these rights had been snatched away or stealthily removed; then it was too late to defend them.

What is it that makes men free in society? Not wealth, nor civic position, nor dominion government, nor business power, but knowledge intelligently applied. We need to be continuously educated and re-educated. Educated in the fundamentals of essential freedom, and re-educated to keep us up to date in a changing world.

JOHN MILTON has lived and written, John Locke has said his say for liberty, and John Stuart Mill has outlined the principles of freedom in imperishable words. Why are not the Areopagitica and the essays on Toleration and Liberty known by every high school student?

Our democratic machinery may be old and worn and, as western Canadians say of temporary machine jobs, held together with haywire here and there. We know that it is not perfect. But we also know that it offers a fuller, freer, happier life to our people than any totalitarian nation has ever offered, and is worth preserving.

WHAT we need today is a live knowledge of what is going on in government, not only in Canada but in other countries, and a crusading constitutional spirit from one end of the country to the other.

Family Portrait

Motto For A Medal

By JOSEPH LISTER, RUTLEDGE

A WHILE BACK an inch item crept in among the more pretentious news distributed by Canadian Press. It had to do with Ben Rousseau of Dorval, near Montreal. The reason for his inch of fame was that he had given up his taxi after 54 years of driving. During that time he had never had an accident or a traffic ticket.

SECOND EXAMPLE

His story parallels that of a Nebraska gentleman affectionately known to his innumerable friends as "Pop." The reason for "Pop's" somewhat larger fame was that his fellow citizens had given him a medal for a considerable achievement. It had to do with driving a bus. There were few taxi or bus drivers in the Hall of Fame but these two have their place—one with a medal, one without.

Ben's record was longer than "Pop's." He had half a century of driving to his credit. "Pop" had driven his bus only 20 years.

But, at the time of the medal incident he had wheeled a tidy total of 1,772,652 miles.

Figures like that are understandable only to astronomer gentlemen. But look at it this way. Suppose there was a highway clear around the earth. By his reckoning "Pop" had made that trip 73 times and was three-quarters way round on his 74th try.

There would be quite a few hazards on that trip and scarcely less because "Pop's" traveling was restricted to a stretch of highway 217 miles long. Yet, in all that traveling, like Ben Rousseau of Dorval, he had avoided even the hint of an accident. That's why he got his medal, and many have been given for lesser reasons.

DRIVING FORMULA

"Pop" trundling his daily average had time for a bit of philosophizing that had hardened into a formula—"Drive like the other guy is crazy."

Of course, "Pop" Hazelwood

must have gone a bit beyond that. There is a wide range of accidents in which the "other guy" doesn't appear at all and "Pop" missed them too.

Eighty thousand miles a year and never an offending scratched fender. Set that against our annual killing and maiming that would represent the population of a small city and the squandering of $60,000,000 or so of our own resources.

"Drive like the other guy was crazy." That's fine. That gives us a handy rule of thumb to guide our conduct.

MENTAL ATTITUDE

It does better than that. It gives us a new attitude of mind. It marks the man who drives dangerously, though, he believes, brilliantly, not as a great driver but as a fool. It marks the man who breaks the law, not as clever but as a bad citizen. So if they need a motto for "Pop's" medal, or we need an appreciative word for Ben Rousseau, it might well be: "It's smart to be careful."

Austerity And The Elections

WITH the approach of what is described here as the most vital general election which has ever taken place in Britain, the fortunes of the Labor government continue to decline.

SURVIVAL BATTLE

Faced with rapidly dwindling gold and dollar reserves, a sharp cut in exports, new strikes—stimulated in part by the Communist-led World Federation of Trade Unions—and the Conservative Party's bold bid for support, British Socialism is waging a fierce battle for survival.

At the moment, the view here is that labor will win in the next elections, although with a much reduced majority. Laborites assert that the common people fear Tory promises much more than they dislike the economic and social control of the Socialists.

But, for the first time since the present government came to power four years ago, labor and the lower middle-class—hitherto its main pillars—show signs of deep dissatisfaction.

In an effort to "build Socialism in our time," the Labor government ignored the basic needs of the people.

Thus, four years after liberation and a decade since the beginning of the war which first ushered in the era of economic austerity, the victorious and long-suffering Englishmen are asked to tighten their belt another notch.

NO BETTER?

A return of the Tories to power would not likely alleviate Britain's plight. The program of the Conservative Party, as contained in a recently-published 68-page pamphlet called "The Right Road for Britain," is, in its own way, as narrow and dogmatic as the "Marxism" of the Labor Party.

The Tories seem to ignore the fact that capitalism, as it is understood and practised in the United States, exists in war-devastated Europe in name only, not in fact.

Termining the Conservative program "One of the most dishonest documents that I have ever read," Prime Minister Clement Attlee recently said that the Tories seem to "ask for increases for everybody" but give no indication as to how they are "going to find the money and who is going to find the money."

At every stage possible, Attlee added, they seek to bring back "the profit-maker and the landlord."

Winston Churchill retorted that from "her high and proud position at the end of the war," the Labor government "brought Great Britain low alike in prosperity and reputation, both at home and abroad."

Every one of the countries of Europe outside the Iron Curtain, said Churchill, enjoys a greater abundance of consumer goods than England.

Many impartial observers believe that Britain's present plight cannot be blamed entirely on what Churchill called the "biased and sterile measures of restriction and nationalization of the Labor government." Much of it is undoubtedly due to the unstable economic and political conditions existing at present in Europe, restrictions on international trade and East-West tension.

THE ALTERNATIVES

But having once embarked on the road of super-nationalization, the government is now faced with two alternatives—either socialist expenditure on the present fantastic scale or deflation and unemployment.

C.S.U. Eyewash

Montreal Star

The setting up of a rank-and-file committee of the Canadian Seamen's Union to negotiate a settlement of the east coast shipping strike is just so much eyewash. There is no body to negotiate with. There is, in fact, no strike. It was broken long ago. What the C.S.U. is now engaged in is picking up the pieces.

It's about time the C.S.U. rank and file woke up to the facts of life. They are not on strike, they are out of jobs. For this they can thank Harry Davis and T. G. McManus. If they want to go to sea again they must make their own way to the ships, not as members of the C.S.U. but as individuals.

IN the midst of a debate on how much to spend on arming Europe against Communism, the United States Congress paused yesterday to hear a question from another precinct.

President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippine republic asked, in effect, what about Asia?

Quirino's point was that Asia will be lost to Communism by default unless the "same courage and vision" are applied there that went into the democratic defenses of Europe.

His sense of urgency, he said, had led him to start a movement toward a union of Pacific countries against Communism. It could serve as a reception centre for whatever aid the United States decides to extend.

It is worth keeping in mind that the first Asiatic leader to whom he talked about the Pacific union was China's Chiang Kai-shek. Yesterday he didn't mention Chiang, who has just been pictured as pretty hopeless as an anti-Communist bulwark by the American White Paper on China.

ONE OF METHOD

Assuming that Congress and the American press and public awake to the reality as Quirino describes it, the question of aiding Asia is likely to boil down to one of method.

The techniques of helping Asia are likely to be different. China has shown, for instance, that aid like that for Greece, dumped into the highly-nationalistic Asiatic picture, can result in a debacle. Korea suggests the apparently-unbridgeable gap that can yawn when the cold war is allowed to split an ethnically coherent people.

No matter how you handle aid for Asia, the problem is gigantic and the cost could come high. The danger of financing a gravity train is present, just as it is in Europe. Asiatics have been in business even longer and are just as quick as Europeans to know a good thing when they see it.

The implied burden of Quirino's message is that this is one world, and if you choose to resist a world dynamic like Communism you've got to think in world terms.

Not just Europe; not just Asia; the world.

GOOD BUSINESS

Ottawa Citizen

Britain is paying her financial indebtedness to Canada at a faster rate than any other country. Canada's loans to the United Kingdom were good business all around. They not only helped Britain get the food and raw materials it needed, but opened the British market to much of Canada's vast post-war production.

VANISHING VEST

Ottawa Journal

There is a movement in the United States, so we read, to abolish the waistcoat as an essential item of men's garb. The vest isn't needed for warmth nowadays, say advocates of this reform, or it can be replaced for occasional need by a knitted jacket. So, they tell us, more and more manufacturers are omitting the vest from men's suits and thus a custom is being born.

For greater comfort many men leave their vests at home in hot weather, and they have to solve the problem of how to carry about with them the articles commonly found in their vest-pockets—pencils, pen, key-ring, car tickets or what not. But we think the real problem of the two-piece suit is the social disfavor superior circles visit upon a man who wears braces and lets them be visible.

It is quite clear that a man's trousers must be supported in one way or another if his sartorial aspirations are to be achieved and if he is to be saved embarrassment. There are two practical means—braces or belt. But not all men, we must point out, have the physical characteristics that make of the belt an efficient and not too uncomfortable agency for holding up his pants, whereas braces will do the job for anybody, lean or fat, long or short, concave or convex in his anatomical outline.

Altogether a simple pair of braces is the most satisfactory means yet devised by man for preventing trousers from collapsing about his ankles, and if we are not to hide them by a vest, if we are to bring them out into the open, their wearers must demand for them sartorial equality with the belt.

Interior Operators Ask 20½-Cent Cut

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lumber operators in British Columbia's northern interior Tuesday proposed a 20½-cent-an-hour wage reduction for 2,000 lumber workers.

The proposal followed Monday's by coastal lumber operators who asked a 13-cent-an-hour reduction for their 32,000 employees.

That was presented in reply to a demand by the International Woodworkers of America (I.W.A.), for a 15-cent-an-hour wage boost.

George Mitchell, district secretary of the I.W.A., said today the union has refused all the requests of the northern interior operators.

Captain Puzzled As Stork Due To Visit Elephant On Ship

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Masters of ships often face tough jobs but Tuesday, in mid-Pacific, unhappy Captain W. S. Tyrrel was face-to-face with the prospect of:

1. Being midwife to an elephant. 2. Nursemaid to the offspring if the delivery is successful.

Tyrrel's ship, the American President Lines' Ss. Taft, is due here next Tuesday with a cargo of wild animals from Siam, including pregnant Flora and three seacick elephant companions.

The captain radioed Flora's condition and the imminence of the stork's arrival—he wanted advice.

Kibitzing from the mainland began immediately. Carey Baldwin, director of the Fleischhacker zoo, exclaimed:

"It's a great event. Elephant births in captivity are quite rare."

He warned that it depends on how Flora is handled whether the delivery will be a success.

"Those people on the ship may kill Flora and the calf with kindness. It's a tricky business, but all they have to do is to leave Flora alone and give her plenty of privacy and she'll have her baby all right."

Baldwin said, however, that after the calf is born the captain should remove it because sometimes the mothers exhibit "matricidal tendencies." He said the captain will then "have to feed the baby by bottle."

"But he shouldn't be alarmed. Elephants are smart and within a few days the baby will be drinking its milk out of a bucket."

The captain's comment? He's not talking.

New York Subway Shock Hits Six

NEW YORK (AP)—Six persons were taken to hospital Tuesday after two subway cars short circuited near the 42nd Street and Eighth Avenue Station of the Independent Subway System.

The six suffered from shock and hysteria after a series of short circuits on an express train set off smoke and a flash of light.

Police said that as the eight-car train approached the station, the main fuse in the electrical circuit under each car exploded. The Board of Transportation said the short circuits were caused by an object dragging from the train which hit the third rail.

Pensioners Hold Annual Picnic

All set for a picnic under the trees are these members of the Victoria Aged Pensioners' Association No. 3. Left to right, at the near side of the table, are Mrs. Alice Sbrocco, 71, and Mrs. K. Kemmer, 74. At the far side, left to right: Mrs. Fred Yeoman, 76; Mr. Yeoman, 76; Mrs. Mary Cookson, 70, and Mrs. J. E. MacDonald, a friend of the organization. At back, left to right, are: Frank Lavery, Stan James, Mrs. Sarah Arnold, 83, president, and Bill Anderson.

Wearing their grey hair and years proudly were more than 200 members of the Victoria Aged Pensioners' Association No. 3, who gathered for their 10th annual picnic at Beacon Hill Park Tuesday afternoon.

More youngsters of 70 chatted over their summer activities with members nudging the 90-mark.

They sang old favorites under direction of Stan James, who with Frank Lavery and Bill Anderson, comprised a musical trio, complete with grease paint and costume. Refreshments, including hot dogs and tea, rounded out the day.

"The whole aim of our association is to make life more pleasant for the elderly people," said Mrs. Sarah Arnold, president, a charter member, who recently celebrated her 83rd birthday. "We have been to summer camp and have had a trip to Port Angeles this summer."

Strong supporters of the association as a means for social get-togethers are Mrs. A. W. Ward, 83, and Mrs. E. J. Dale, both charter members. Mrs. Ward's support, however, stopped short at one of the items on the picnic menu.

"I'm not a lover of hot dogs," she said smilingly. Joe North announced that he had obtained 50 tickets for the Starlight Theatre Aug. 15 for members and that a free show would be given by the Dominion Theatre Aug. 23.

Winnipeg Scientists Using Sensitive New Instrument In North

REGINA (CP)—Three Winnipeg scientists, using a newly invented instrument to detect radioactivity, are conducting radiation surveys for a mining company on the western shore of Black Lake, 400 miles north of here, the provincial resources department said Tuesday.

The inventors are Dr. R. W. Pringle, nuclear physicist; Dr. K. I. Bowston, electronics physicist, and Dr. G. M. Brownell, head of the geology department of the University of Manitoba. They call their invention a "portable ray spectrometer."

Dr. Pringle said "we have been able to make a number of finds in areas which had already been explored in geiger counter work."

The scientists claim their invention is "hundreds of times more sensitive than the geiger counter now used in the search for uranium."

The spectrometer measures "precisely the intensity of gamma-rays emitted by radio-active deposits."

An advantage the spectrometer has over the ordinary geiger counter, they said, is its ability to distinguish between thorium and uranium. Thorium is often found to be radio-active but geologists claim it is of no consequence at present in the production of uranium.

I.W.A. Prepares For Fight Against Proposed Pay Cuts

VANCOUVER (CP)—The International Woodworkers of America (C.C.L.C.O.), in a bulletin to its coastal loggers Tuesday night, termed the proposal of coast operators to cut wages by 13 cents an hour preposterous and announced if the conciliation board returns an unfavorable decision "we are in for a fight."

As an alternative to the wage cut, the operators said the industry faced a partial closure.

The I.W.A., in negotiations which started some time ago and which now are before a conciliation board, had asked a 15-cent per hour wage increase for the 30,000 employees of almost 200 coast firms. The board has adjourned until Thursday to allow the union to consider the operators' reply.

It was the first time since the depression that the operators have asked union loggers take the wage cut, an upward adjustment in hours of work, and other contract revisions that would mean a loss of ground gained through costly strikes since 1946.

Coastal firms, operating 165 camps, told the conciliation board that 4,000 less men and 39 fewer plants are working this year.

Reason given was that the wage scale, raised to 95 cents in 1947 and $1.08 last year, is too high in the face of the falling United Kingdom market.

Other union demands for a union shop, employee-financed health scheme, and reduction of board rates have been flatly refused.

BIGGER CUT IN INTERIOR
 The coast operators' move was followed by a similar one on the part of northern interior industrialists. They asked the union's 2,000 men to take a 20½-cent cut, a return to the 48-hour week, and a general resumption of the conditions of 1946.

The men want a 15-cent-an-hour raise.

The west coast operators'

brief to the conciliation board said:

Tells Of Resources, Wild Life In N.W. Territories

"Few persons realize that one third of the land area of Canada lies in the Northwest and Yukon Territories," Maj. E. G. Oldham stated in an address on the development of wild life and resources in the Northwest Territories to members of the Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday at the Empress Hotel.

"It was only recently that the federal government began to look into the matter of natural resources in the Northwest," he continued. "A service was set up to determine the resources and as a result the area was broken up into five administrative districts."

Maj. Oldham indicated that the general administrative headquarters was situated at Fort Smith on the Great Slave River, about two miles inside the Northwest Territories. The area to the west of Hudson Bay had received the most in the way of development of these natural resources, he said.

Maximum elevation of the southern section of the Northwest Territories was 3,500 feet and the minimum 600 feet, Maj. Oldham stated. Much of the area was flat country consisting of muskeg and water. There were two mountain ranges in the area—the Mackenzie Mountains, which were an extension of the Rockies and the Richardson range.

Some of the best muskrats were produced around the three main delta areas, which were situated at the mouths of the Athabaskan, Slave and Mackenzie Rivers, he said. Temperatures in the area were inclined to be extreme, but the climate with regard to precipitation was not extreme as most people would think, the speaker continued.

Transportation was named as one of the main difficulties encountered in the Northwest Territories. He said that aircraft was used chiefly during the winter, while other forms included trucks, tractors and dog sled.

ABUNDANT WILD LIFE

Wild life in the Northwest Territories was abundant, especially the reindeer. Other forms found were the wood buffalo, which is larger and more ferocious than the ordinary American plain buffalo, the jumping deer, goat, sheep, bear and moose.

Uranium, gold and base metals were the chief minerals. Maj. Oldham stated. All mining was carried on in the Pre-Cambrian Shield area. He said that fishing was also important in the northern area. Most abundant species were trout, whitefish, goldeye and bluefish. The trout went as high as 40 to 50 pounds, he said.

Population was chiefly made up of Eskimos and Indians, but there were also numerous white persons living in the area.

At the conclusion of his talk, Maj. Oldham showed a color film depicting scenery in the Northwest Territories.

Canadian Plane To Be Used To Reach Marooned Scientists

LONDON (Reuter)—Sir Miles Clifford, governor of the Falkland Islands, in a broadcast from London Tuesday night told 11 British scientists marooned in the Antarctic of a plan to fly them out in a Canadian ski-plane.

The men, members of a Falkland Islands survey, are on Stonington Island, Marguerite Bay, southwest Grahamland. They were due for relief last March but the relief ship failed to get through.

Since last June 7, the BBC has broadcast a weekly program for the men, on which their relatives have talked to them.

Sir Miles said he had spent three weeks in Canada arranging for a Norseman single-engine monoplane with landing gear which can be adapted to take wheels, skids or floats. In the Antarctic she will be supported by an Auster Guard plane operating on floats.

The relief ship will sail from Britain for the Antarctic in October and start her relief of the survey's northern bases in December, leaving the Norseman at Deception Island for re-assembly and trials.

The relief ship is due to reach the Stonington Island base in February or March. If she fails, the Norseman will take over.

British Shopkeepers To Oppose Price Cuts

LONDON (AP)—British shopkeepers Tuesday called for a country-wide strike against an order to cut prices—and the Labor government showed signs of giving ground.

John Edwards, parliamentary secretary for the board of trade, said he welcomed a suggestion for the government to talk the whole thing over with trade organizations before going ahead. The board had been expected to order the cuts into effect about the middle of next month. It would reduce the retail price of utility garments and textiles by 5 per cent.

Delegates representing 250,000 shopkeepers later voted at a protest meeting not to make the cuts until the board actually talks it over with their trade organizations.

B.C. Grain Exports Show 60% Gain

VANCOUVER (CP)—Grain exports from British Columbia ports in the crop year ending July 31 showed an increase of more than 60 per cent over last season.

The Vancouver Merchants Exchange reported today more than 60,364,000 bushels of grain were exported.

Only 37,236,000 bushels moved from B.C. ports in the 1947-48 crop season.

Parents Here From Toronto As Minister Claims Bride

Rev. Alex Orr, M.A., and his bride.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Orr came from Toronto to attend the marriage of their son Rev. Alexander R. Orr, M.A., to Miss Margaret Lillian Gordon, Monday evening.

The ceremony, of wide interest, was held in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, where the groom has conducted services for the past two years. Rev. J. L. W. McLean officiated.

Tall baskets of pink and white gladioli and pastel sweet peas made a colorful background for the bride, daughter of Mrs. Mary Gordon, Kipling Street, and the late Andrew Gordon, as she was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, J. H. Britton.

Her gown was of traditional white satin, with yoke and sleeves of lace. An apron effect repeating the lace, was swathed at the back in a slight bustle, and the full skirt swirled into a small train.

Embroidered net cascaded to her fingertips from a Mary Stuart headdress, and she held pink rapture roses in her bouquet.

American Women Say Japanese Mind Is 'Still To Be Taken'

TORONTO (CP)—Two United States women now living in Japan say that one beachhead—the Japanese mind—still remains to be taken in Japan. They say both the Communists and the western democracies now are trying to take it first.

Mrs. Mildred Gopzalez and Mrs. Eudice Gordon, wives of U.S. servicemen serving with U.S. occupation forces in Japan, were interviewed today at the triennial convention of the Order of the Eastern Star.

They both are Worthy Matrons of two new chapters formed among service personnel, foreign nationals and business persons living in Japan.

"The Communists are making a valiant effort to get in and keep groups like ours out," Mrs. Gopzalez said.

"I really believe that most Japanese fear communism more than anyone here realizes. They don't know what to make of it."

Mrs. Gordon said "Communists go on trying to make the Japanese people dissatisfied."

"They make them expect the country should be back to normal again right away."

Both women said that life in Japan was not easy.

FOOD POISONING, NO FUN

Outbreaks of food poisoning are traced each year to picnic, camp or cottage meals. Food poisoning is caused by germs which sometimes reach food from infected sores, dirty hands, dishes and so forth. The coughs and sneezes of infected people also carry germs to food. In warm weather the germs multiply so rapidly that food held even an hour without adequate refrigeration may be dangerous.

Heating held-over food is, as a rule, not sufficient to destroy the poisons produced by the germs. Among foods most commonly involved are commercially made or homemade salads, pre-cooked hams, cream-filled pastries, sandwich fillings and warmed-over foods such as hash. Cleanliness, adequate refrigeration and immediate use of perishable foods can prevent this hazard.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

PARENT CAN ENCOURAGE BABY TO LEARN TO TALK

Speech goes through a long stage of development, beginning with the initial birth cry. As early as four months, as late as nine, the baby will begin to make those babble sounds which later he will crystallize into meaningful words. In fact, the first sounds usually made, mama, dada, bababa, become the baby's first real words, Mama, Daddy, and Baby. Upon this meagre foundation the child piles new words monthly. By the time he is three years of age, he may have a vocabulary of many hundreds of words; said in a babyish or a grownup way, and he may be able to string as many as four or five words together into a sentence. If he is not talking at all by the time he is three years of age, it is well to consult a speech pathologist who will try to determine the reasons for the delay.

Ordinarily the causes of delayed speech fall into one or the other of these classifications: (1) Mental backwardness. Speech is enormously complex and demands normal mentality. The parent should suspect mental backwardness because of her child's whole behavior, not just his failure to speak.

(2) Faulty hearing. This may be of minor or major significance, but no matter how trivial the hearing loss the child will not be able to hear words clearly and will have no pattern upon which to model his own speech. It is amazing how often a parent fails to suspect deafness in her child.

(3) The physical handicaps of a long illness or extremely high temperatures may have an influence on the ability to speak. In addition, if the child has been ill for long months, he will have enjoyed so much attention from parents or nurses that his imperious grunts and gestures will get him whatever he wants. Why go to the trouble of speaking if a demanding finger will do as well?

This may happen in a family

Today's Recipe

VEAL AND RICE RING

For sheer simplicity of service during warm summer days, you can't go wrong by combining your meat and carbohydrate foods as in this veal and rice ring. Serve it with a tossed salad of greens seasoned with sharp French dressing and hot buttered rolls. Remember that rice is always budget-wise, nourishing and easy to serve. It may be kept cooked in your refrigerator, ready to combine with other foods at short notice.

Ingredients: One onion, 2 tablespoons butter, 2½ cups cooked rice, 2½ cups previously cooked veal, 1 tablespoon green pepper, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 egg, 1 cup milk.

Preparing the fluffy white rice—Put one cup of white rice, one teaspoon salt and two cups cold water in a two-quart saucepan. Cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until it boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more. During this time the rice will absorb the water and come out deliciously tender. Remove the lid to permit the rice to steam dry. Lift rice with a fork to test its consistency.

Never stir rice while cooking and the grains will be separate and tender. Makes approximately 3½ cups fluffy white rice. Keep leftover cooked rice in a covered bowl in refrigerator—you'll find it handy next time you're in a hurry to fix a quick meal.

Method—Brown the chopped onion in the butter. Mix the cooked rice and ground cooked veal and chopped pepper together. Add the rest of the ingredients and put in a well-buttered eight-inch mold. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. This will yield six servings.

SPARKLING JELLY

Touch cool meat jelly with drops of lemon juice and offer it to your diners on hot days. You just put a bowl of jelled consommé in front of them and watch tired looks brighten. It's chilled delight for a summer meal beginning, tinned consommé. It sparkles, it wobbles, it gleams amber. It's the deep flavor of beef mingled with tomatoes, celery, carrots and parsley, all strained to a clear, invigorating broth. To jell, place tins of consommé near the freezing compartment in the refrigerator. Chill at least four hours. Cool the serving bowls in the refrigerator too. When ready to eat, open the tin and roll out the jelly. Serve with lemon slices (or lemon juice) tomato wedges or avocado. Buy it reasonably, eat it blithely. End up relaxed and eager for the rest of the meal.

Dorothy Dix

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a young man of 26 in love with a girl of 23 and am my mother's only means of support. If I marry I would have to bring mother to live with us. If not, I will be depriving the girl and myself of the companionship and happiness that should be ours. Recognizing the problems which will confront us, should I decide in favor of the latter and the futility and emptiness of life or should I decide in favor of the former? I am coming to you for advice. What shall I do?

UNDECIDED.

Answer—I think your decision should depend upon how broad-minded your mother and the girl are. If they are big, liberal, intelligent, just women who are capable of adjusting themselves to a difficult situation and making the best of it, there is no reason why your marriage should not be successful.

Not all mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law fight like Kilkenny cats.

Even if only one of the women loves you well enough to be willing to sacrifice some of her own personal inclinations and desires for your sake and make a genuine effort to get along with the other, you might risk marriage.

But if both your mother and the girl are narrow and jealous and selfish and particularly if they are of the possessive type of women, you had better endure the ills you have than fly to those you know not of. For a home can be a hell on earth in which they are two women battling over a man that they both love and that each is trying to take away from the other.

This is why, generally speaking, it is a fatal mistake for in-laws to try to live together, but there are exceptions to all rules, and I hope yours will be one of them.

BOILING VEGETABLES

Boiling vegetables so they still taste good, look good and also are high in food value is an art that can soon be learned. Here are the techniques—

Cook vegetables in a small amount of water for a short time—just until they are tender. Have the water salted and boiling when you drop the vegetables in.

Keep the lid on the pot. Serve as soon as possible after cooking.

These methods not only help to save the food values, but they also help to bring the marvelous color scheme of your garden directly to your table. There is flavor, color, texture and zest in garden-fresh vegetables.

Citizens Like Adagio Dancing

Doreen Bull, Ronnie Purcell Victors In Finals Of Daily Times Talent Quest

It is "California, Here We Come" for Doreen Bull and Ronnie Purcell!

Tuesday night before the liveliest audience in many a day at the Odeon Theatre, the young couple proved show-stoppers with their adagio dance and drew a great round of applause to win Roy Gordon's Daily Times Talent Quest—and with it an expense paid trip to Hollywood.

And when it was all over, they could not think of a thing to say but their wide smiles were proof enough of the thrill each felt inside at the victory in the 15-week contest.

They did not need to say anything, however, for impresario Gordon was filling their ears with talk of a one-day stopover in San Francisco, of a jaunt south to San Diego, of tours of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Universal Studios, of sightseeing in the movie city... Olvera Street, Beverly Hills, NBC and CBS studios, the Paladium, theatres, restaurants, and a chance to meet some movie stars.

FIRST TIME SOUTH

It will be the first time either Doreen, or Ronnie has visited the sunny state.

For the four unsuccessful acts, there was some compensation. Mr. Gordon announced from the stage that next month he will be back with another series of stage shows, with many of the artists who had competed in the quest to appear as paid performers.

Runner-up in the judging, which took place at the first of the two shows held to accommodate some 3,000 Victorians, was 13-year-old Diane Tippet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Tippet, 1043 Clare Street.

Diane received only a little less applause than the winning pair for her amazing acrobatic dance in which she kept those in the crowded theatre clapping throughout her cartwheels, twists, turns, crabwalks, splits and balancing.

Theatregoers at both shows were quick to respond to the fine acts.

Little eight-year-old Linda Yee proved a real trouper with her tap dance to "Penguin at the Waldorf." Dressed in a gold satin costume, the petite Chinese girl was aptly described by Emcee Roy Gordon as a little Dresden doll.

Another Chinese tap dancer, Roger Lowe, 846 Yates Street, was little short of terrific with his routine, and was well-received by the audience.

ATTRACTIVE PIANIST

Also trying for the Hollywood trip was an attractive 19-year-old Port Alberni pianist, Gloria Haines. She showed her years of study at the keyboard, many of them in Victoria, were far from being in vain as her nimble fingers played "Invitation to the Waltz."

Brunette Miss Haines, who won a similar quest at the up-island centre, was dressed in a shimmering blue evening gown.

There was one disappointment. Johnny Page, who won the first

Soviets To Send Tenth Of British Softwood Supplies

LONDON (AP)—Russia has agreed to send Britain about 100,000 standards (198,000,000 board feet) of softwood—or 10 per cent of her soft timber imports—by the end of the year, the Board of Trade announced today.

The board said the contracts call for prices lower than this country paid last year. But the announcement did not disclose any figures.

The timber will consist of redwood and whitewood. Britain is going to use half for joinery purposes, and half for building.

The deal is outside of current Anglo-Russian negotiations for a general one-year trade pact. Russia recently promised to send Britain about 1,000,000 tons of coarse grains over the next year if efforts to write the over-all trade agreement succeed.

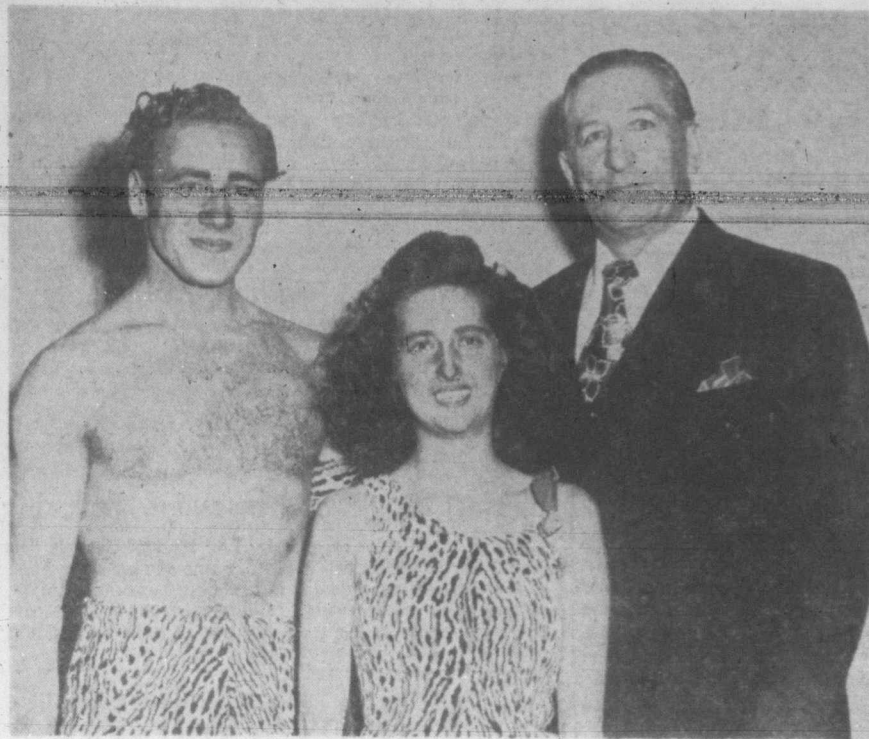

During 1948, British imports of timber of all kinds (that is, excluding hardwoods, pitprops and so on) totaled slightly more than 1,000,000 standards.

Acid-Bath Slayer John Haigh Hanged

LONDON (AP)—John George Haigh, self-confessed vampire slayer of nine persons, was hanged today at Wandsworth prison.

The handsome, 39-year-old business executive was convicted July 19 for murdering a well-to-do widow, Mrs. Olivia Durand-Deacon, 69, for her money.

A jury rejected a defence plea of insanity and sentenced Haigh to death.

Smiling happily after being acclaimed winners of the Daily Times Talent Quest at the Odeon Theatre Tuesday night are adagio dancers Doreen Bull and Ronnie Purcell, while Emcee Roy Gordon, right, tells them of the wonders of Hollywood, which they will visit as a prize for being the tops in amateur talent in Victoria.

round of the talent quest in May with his "mammy" singing, failed to show up. Mr. Gordon was at a loss to explain it, but heard a report after the show that he was out of town.

VARIETY OF ACTS

Rounding out the show were several colorful acts, including Roy Gordon himself singing "Somebody Stole My Gal," in a style that, if nothing else, was individualistic—and the crowd loved it.

Eleven-year-old Gary Smele, termed by the master of ceremonies "the mascot of the talent quest," again wowed citizens with his personality as he sang "Shine On Harvest Moon" and "Oh, You Beautiful Doll."

Four young misses, unsuccessful candidates for the quest crown in earlier rounds, came back as guest artists in a tap-dancing routine. They were Frances Merriman, Valerie Parkin, Doreen Dovey and Marilyn Somers.

For about three months the Cubanaires have been faithfully grinding out the South American rhythms from a corner in front of the stage as a background to the talent quest.

Tuesday night they stole the show as far as guest acts went when, after finally appearing on the stage itself, they presented "Tico Tico" and "I-yi-yi Like You Very Much," in one of the most humorous and entertaining routines of the year on a local stage.

Seek New Secretary For Police Chief; Mrs. Shaw To Retire

City personnel department will be asked to advertise for applicants to fill the position of Mrs. Bessie L. Shaw, who, among other things, handles the job as commission secretary, the chief's secretary and a relief role as police court stenographer.

Commission was informed at its meeting Tuesday afternoon that Mrs. Shaw, who has been with the department since 1938, will retire at the end of October. Chief of Police J. A. McLellan asked for immediate action as he felt that the person who will take over should work with Mrs. Shaw for at least a full month.

Mayor Percy E. George, commission chairman, spoke the sentiments of the board when he told Mrs. Shaw he was sorry to see her leaving the commission.

SOOKE CHAMBER MEETS

SOOKE—Sooke-Jordan River Chamber of Commerce will meet at Jordan River Friday night at 8.

793 Parking Meter Offences In June-July; $4,317 In Fines

Individual fines levied totaled 1,253.

Contributing a good share of this were citizens violating the parking meter by-law. A total of $793 in $1 fines were collected for this infraction—many of the contributors being repeaters.

Want 'Bottleneck' Eliminated At Quadra-Hillside

A strong recommendation that the city public works department undertake a project to eliminate a bad "bottleneck" at the intersection of Quadra Street and Hillside Avenue, was unanimously passed at the meeting of the city police commission Tuesday afternoon.

The commission wishes the works department to widen Quadra north of Hillside by six feet on the east side to Market Street. Mayor Percy E. George, chairman, said that was what was wanted immediately, but his suggestion that the same widening program be carried right along that main artery to the city limits in a long-range plan, was endorsed and will also be sent to the works committee.

A plan of what is desired, prepared by Sgt. Brooke Douglass of the traffic department, will be forwarded with the recommendation. The widening program there has been long championed by Commissioner Burges J. Gadsden.

Quadra narrows down from 44 feet south of Hillside to 38 feet two inches, north of the avenue.

Police Clothing Contracts Awarded

Victoria police commission Tuesday afternoon awarded contracts for uniforms and other clothing needs for the Victoria Police Department amounting to $6,319.

Gordon Campbell Limited's bid of $5,477.79 was accepted to provide 62 uniforms, nine long overcoats and 12 short overcoats.

Sixty-one constables' caps to cost $237 was awarded Muir Cap and Regatta Ltd., Toronto. The chief's hat—"the first new one I've had in 10 years," he said—will be secured from W. & J. Wilson. It will cost $20.60. Bid of Hall & Co. Ltd. of $364.62 to provide 118 blue shirts, was approved. Spider Looms, Ltd., bid of $112.07 was accepted to supply 124 ties. Jeune Bros. Ltd., again won the bid to supply eight oilskins for $107.

Officers Promoted

Recommendations of Chief of Police J. A. McLellan that Constables Lorne Shandley, Thomas Smith and Albert V. Harwood be promoted to the rank of first class constables, was approved by the city police commission meeting Tuesday. Also approved was the chief's recommendation that Constable A. Massen be promoted to a second class constable. The chief said all had done good service to warrant the promotions.

13 Went To Essondale

Public Keeps City Police 'On The Go'

An indication of the activity of the personnel of the Victoria city police department during June and July is the 3,019 reports received which called for either uniformed or detectives' attention. These calls ranged from accidents of a varied sort, numerous types of crimes and complaints of the "dog-bites-man" category, down to Mrs. Jones having weeds and grass on her property creating a fire hazard.

Made Down Payment On R.A.F. Airfield

LONDON (CP)—Scotland Yard said Tuesday night eight men will be charged in an Essex court Sept. 8 in connection with a reported attempt to sell an R.A.F. airfield for £250,000 (£1,000,000).

"Presently we cannot disclose the location of the airfield," a Scotland Yard official told the Canadian Press. "Papers dealing with the case now are in the hands of the director of public prosecutions."

It was understood the airfield was let by the Air Ministry to a private company.

A South African diamond merchant became interested and entered into an agreement to buy. The merchant flew 5,000 miles to see the airfield and found runways, hangars and other airfield buildings in good order.

The merchant, after paying some money down, discovered that the airfield still belonged to the R.A.F.

Yugoslavia Charges Children Captive

BELGRADE (AP)—Yugoslavia accused Russia Tuesday night of holding captive 63 of this country's children sent to the Soviet Union for education after the war's end.

It described the youngsters as between 10 and 13 years old—most of them either war orphans or boys who served as army messengers during the fight for liberation.

A formal statement issued through the ministry of information said that the children have been permitted to speak only the Russian language, that they are no longer allowed to receive letters from home.

It added the children have been "terrorized in various ways." That they have been deceived about conditions in Yugoslavia, that their pictures of Marshal Tito have been seized.

He said the government should "take further positive steps toward a greater realization of the great fishery potential of the Dominion."

Police Hunt Armed Men Near Osoyoos

OSOYOOS, B.C. (CP)—An intensive police hunt was under way Tuesday night for two heavily-armed men who passed through here driving a 1949 tan-colored convertible reported stolen Saturday night in Spokane.

British Columbia provincial police said the pair were armed with revolvers and a sub-machine gun. Washington state plates on the auto had been replaced with plates stolen from a B.C. auto here Monday.

Only a vague description of the two men was available to police. The men were reported heading toward the Okanagan Valley.

Juveniles In Court For Varied Offences

Several local juveniles came in for court attention during June and July, Chief of Police J. A. McLellan's reports submitted to the city police commission Tuesday afternoon showed.

In June one youth was charged with an auto theft, another with intoxication. A common assault charge against one was withdrawn. Two juveniles were charged with dangerous driving, one for being incorrigible.

Only two were before the Juvenile Court in July, one on two charges of breaking and entering and the other for exceeding the speed limit.

Over the same period 18 automobiles reported stolen were recovered. It was the same story for 23 bicycles that were stolen.

Exhibit Emphasizes Versatility Of Artist

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON
Paintings that are academically interesting, pictorially satisfying and of historical significance locally, are a rarity. In opening the exhibition of paintings by Sophia Deane-Drummond at the Arts Centre, Broughton Street, Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Charles Banks made this clear, referring to the distinction received by Mrs. Deane-Drummond and to the fact that, as a member of a pioneer family, she had used her talented brush to record some of the outstanding figures of British Columbia's past.

The tiny gallery was crowded for the opening. A fact which, together with the handsome collection of canvases, once more drew many comments on the crying need for more adequate premises for the capital city's artists and art lovers.

The canvases comprise mostly portrait and life studies, but there are two or three landscape which show the artist's versatility and two cathedral interiors which are skillful as to architectural detail and sensitively observed in light and color value.

Amongst the historical portraits, a group loaned by the B.C. government drew particular attention for their fine detail and, for those who remembered the persons themselves, the wonderful likeness. These were Lady Crease, Sir Henry Crease and Sir H. Joly de Lotbiniere.

CHILD PORTRAITS

Mrs. Deane-Drummond is particularly gifted in child portraiture and her studies of Armine and Warren Pemberton capture the essential spirit, clothing it in lovely flesh tones and delicate contours. Another in this group is the distinguished "Little Boy Blue" which was hung "on the line" at the Royal Academy—a phrase which means that this picture was hung on the line of vision, a position reserved for judge's first choices. Looking at the portrait, one is impressed by the deep inner beauty it holds, the quietness and elusive quality of sadness.

One section of wall is dominated by a riotous floral piece, which is a detail enlarged from a big canvas by the Dutch artist, Van Huisen. Two handsome paintings—only slightly less than lifesize, also Royal Academy "line" pictures, were a centre of attraction for most visitors. In particular, the study of two young girls brooding over an open book before a warmly glowing fire, has all the qualities of the style in which English painting excelled at the turn of the century. They are what might be termed "conversation pieces" in the Sargeant manner. "John O' Dreams" shows a new influence at work in the artist's technique. Here, the French discovery of the juxtaposition of complementaries in shadows has been used to give richness and glow to the pastoral qualities of a beautiful canvas.

Burglar Pays Third Visit To Home

The burglar who entered the home of Mrs. W. Arthur, 1224 Caledonia Avenue, on a night earlier this week—for the third time—found nothing of value to take in a search through cupboards and drawers, city police reported.

The burglar, apparently working on a timetable, entered the home twice before—and on each occasion it has always been two or three days before Mrs. Arthur's husband, who is in the navy, was due to arrive home. Entry this time was gained through an unlocked pantry window.

S.P.C.A. Frowns On Pets In Dress For Park Parades

The S.P.C.A. favors pet parades in the summer park, and playground programs, but the animals must not be "dolled up" in clothing.

This was reported from the monthly meeting of the humane society by James Barr, president.

He said the S.P.C.A. has officially at Victoria and Saanich pet parades this year, and has awarded subscriptions to the American Humane Magazine as prizes to children showing the oldest animal in best condition and the best exhibited animal.

"But," said Mr. Barr, "we take exception to the animals being dressed up in clothes because this is a dangerous practice. Animals have been killed and injured in traffic because they were hampered by clothing."

The meeting passed several applications for membership in the society, including one for a guide-dog, "Storm," whose blind master, R. O. Dickson has been a member for many years.

It was reported that 65 investigations were made in July as well as 21 inspections. Sixty animals were destroyed humanely during the month, most of them newly-born pups and kittens.

During July 22 animals were placed in new homes, 33 animals were reported lost, 56 were reported found, 18 lost animals were returned to owners, and 83 emergency cases attended.

Four Boer War Vets Living In Victoria

At least four South African veterans in Victoria will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Boer War, which will be observed throughout Canada Feb. 26, 1950. They are former members of Victoria's 5th B.C. Regiment, which sent a contingent of 25 men in 1899 to South Africa.

They are Maj. C. M. Roberts, 913 Burdett Avenue; Clark W. Gamble, Patricia Bay; George Neill and Henry Smethurst, both of Victoria.

The National Boer War commemorative program is being initiated by the Toronto Association of Canadian African Veterans which is seeking names of all living veterans who took part in that campaign.

Forty Entrants In City Beauty Contest

Friday of this week will be the deadline for accepting entries for the "Miss Victoria" beauty contest to be held at the Dominion Theatre Aug. 17, 18 and 19. Martin Cave, theatre manager, announced today.

The contest, which offers the winner many valuable merchandise prizes, a free trip to Vancouver and a chance at this year's "Miss P.N.E." title, has already attracted much interest. Names of about 40 Victoria girls have been submitted so far but more are being sought. A panel of independent judges will determine how many of these actually compete in the stage competition which theatre audiences will adjudicate.

Entry forms may be obtained from the Dominion box office.

Saanich Gardener Grows Twin Marrow

Siamese twins were brought into the Times office today by C. D. Garland, 1272 Holloway Street, "father" of the pair.

The twins were not of the human species, however. They were a pair of vegetable marrows, still in the early stage of development and grown in Mr. Garland's garden. Both growing from a single stem, the "twins" measured six inches across.

Medalist, Champion Meet In Seniors' Golf Semis

Medalist Ralph Whaley and defending champion Gerry McManama, both of Seattle, will clash tomorrow in the semifinals of the grand championship of the 27th annual Northwest Senior's Golf Association at the Oak Bay links of the Victoria Club.

In matches today Whaley turned back A. S. G. Musgrave, Victoria, 6 and 4, while McManama had an easy time in defeating Roy Wood, Portland, 6 and 5.

Matches in the lower half of the draw saw E. N. Eisenhower, Tacoma, win from R. C. Parker, Portland, 6 and 5, and R. Bell, Irving, Vancouver, eliminate R. L. Fortt, Victoria, by a similar score.

In all four matches the results were never in doubt as the winners built up early leads.

Whaley, four times holder of the championship, won the first four holes. The fifth, sixth and seventh holes were halved in pars. Whaley had a birdie two to win the eighth while Musgrave got a birdie to take the ninth, leaving him 4 down at the turn. Two par fours at the 10th and 11th holes put the Seattle star 6 up and he closed out the match with a par three on the 14th.

Toronto High School Boys Set For Busy Time In City

Sixteen youthful ambassadors of goodwill from eastern Canada arrived in Victoria today for a 22-hour visit.

All Toronto high school students, their visit here is part of a 15-day education tour sponsored by the Toronto Board of Education and the T. Eaton Company.

Those making the tour are doing so on traveling scholarships provided on the basis of all-round proficiency during the last school year.

The boys arrived in Victoria at 4:15 this afternoon aboard a C.P.R. boat from Vancouver. Dressed alike in navy blue blazers and grey, flannel slacks, presented by the Eaton Company, the youths drew comment on their smart appearance as they disembarked.

From the wharf, the boys were taken to the Empress Hotel where they will spend tonight and then to the Crystal Garden for a swim.

All 16 of the youths are proficient swimmers, that being one of the qualifications for being taken on the trip.

Following their swim, the boys will be taken to dinner and then on a bus sightseeing trip through the city and around the waterfront.

At 8 p.m., the lads will go to Royal Athletic Park to witness the baseball game between Victoria's Athletics and Spokane's Indians.

Thursday, following breakfast at the Eaton store, the Torontonians will be taken to Butchart's Gardens and the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain.

Those in charge of the boys' schedule in Victoria are hoping an inspection tour of the cruiser H.M.C.S. Ontario can be made following the observatory visit. Naval permission for this has yet to be granted.

Lunch and a visit to the Parliament Buildings will round out the boys' time before they leave to return to Vancouver.

They will travel by train to spend a few days in the Rockies and then will move on to Regina and Winnipeg. From Winnipeg they will fly to their homes in Toronto, arriving Aug. 17.

When school reconvenes in September, the boys will be expected to relate their experiences and impressions of the west to the thousands of school students in Toronto and adjacent centres.

Says Markets Fair For Saanich Berries But Prices Not As High

There has been a fair demand for fruit from Saanich Peninsula farmers this year but prices have not been as high as last year, it was reported today by J. J. Young, manager of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association.

Mr. Young said pickers were busy now with the last of the loganberries and sour cherries. Picking would be started soon on blackberries and plums.

"And then our season is over," he said.

Questioned about the weather and its effect on the crops, Mr. Young said the Saanich growers had better conditions this year than mainland fruitmen.

"The season has been quite favorable. We have been fortunate in that respect," he said.

"They had too much rain on the mainland."

The weather here had been a little dry for next year's crops. Young strawberry plants had not made the same growth this year as they had done at this time last year.

The crops this year had lived up to the expectations of the growers, the association manager continued.

The strawberry crop was about normal; the plum crop looked as though it would be good; there was evidence the blackberry crop would be fair.

"But," Mr. Young repeated, "prices are not as good. The growers won't make the money this year that they did last year."

Mr. Young said the berry planters were down because of winter injury to plants; the cherry crop was good; the plum crop looked as though it would be good; there was evidence the blackberry crop would be fair.

Australia Planning Huge Oil Refinery

CANBERRA (UP)—Australian Reconstruction Minister J. J. Dedman said today that Australia is considering construction of a $19,260,000 refinery to produce all types of petroleum products. The project was recommended by the government's industrial development division on grounds that possible oil strikes at Papua, New Guinea, would make it necessary.

The route for the highway has not yet been selected. The provinces have not yet reached an agreement on that point. Difficulties over the route have to be worked out and arterial roads made possible so that points of interest throughout Canada may not be overlooked. Parts of the country to be served by highway also have to be taken into consideration.

Without exception, reporters who covered the manoeuvres said that they gave strong evidence of weak Canadian defensive forces, both on the ground and in the air, and of Canada's inability to handle an attack in the strategic Alaska Highway area.

The sole purpose was to allow the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry battalion to carry out its role as an airborne unit, he said.

"This was not a mock battle and there was never any suggestion of a demonstration of Canadian might," he said. "The exercise was very successful and it served its purpose. We now know conclusively that the P.P.C. L.I. can do what it is supposed to do as an airborne battalion."

Air Marshall A. W. Curtis, chief of air staff, said that there had been no attempt to show potential aerial defences of the north nor any effort to assert air supremacy.

"The exercise should not have been regarded as an air defence scheme," he said. "If that had been the intention, the air force would have done it differently."

RESULT OF UNION FIGHT—Lumber trucks, hauling mine timbers, are shoved over a steep embankment near Washington, Pa., climaxing a fight between miners and non-union lumbermen. Vesterburg pit workers, aroused by the non-union drivers, attacked 16 trucks. The drivers fled, but the miners set the trucks afire and shoved them over the side. (NEA Telephoto)

$175,000,000 Federal Aid Proposed For Canada Road

OTTAWA (CP)—The first session of the new Parliament, due to begin Sept. 15, will be asked to ratify legislation providing for the construction of a Trans-Canada Highway, it was learned Tuesday.

Reconstruction Minister Winters said in an interview the legislation will provide for a federal financial contribution toward the multi-million dollar project.

No financial agreement has yet been reached with the provinces, but Mr. Winters estimated that the federal contribution will run between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000. Total cost of laying down a 5,000-mile hard-surfaced highway is expected to run about $400,000,000.

TAKE FIVE YEARS
Work will be under the jurisdiction of the provinces and is expected to start next spring. It estimated it will take about five years to complete the route in most provinces.

Mr. Winters said he considers the project as part of a public investment program. It will provide employment in the provinces and will also open up the country to further development.

The route for the highway has not yet been selected. The provinces have not yet reached an agreement on that point. Difficulties over the route have to be worked out and arterial roads made possible so that points of interest throughout Canada may not be overlooked. ## Housing Minister Himself Homeless

OTTAWA (BUP) — The man responsible for finding houses for Canadians is looking frantically for a house himself.

Reconstruction Minister Robert Winters, now on a trans-Canada tour to discuss housing problems with provincial authorities, has been notified the lease on his present home in Ottawa here expires at the end of this month.

He and his wife, and three children, may find themselves on the street unless they can obtain a renewal.

Sydney Dock Area Rocked By Blast

SYDNEY, N.S. (BUP) — An explosion aboard the tug Margaret Mac rocked Sydney's dock area Tuesday and started a three-alarm fire that gutted the vessel at its pier.

Two crewmen were thrown from the deck to the wharf by the blast, which tore off the tug's deckhouse but did not injure anyone.

Cause of the explosion, which occurred while the vessel was tied up at an oil company wharf, was not established.

Church Pushes Drive To Abolish Casino In Tiny Republic

SAN MARINO (BUP) — The Catholic Church in the tiny Republic of San Marino pushed a campaign Tuesday to abolish the gambling casino set up eight days ago by Genoese financiers and the Communist-dominated state council to replenish the state's exhausted treasury.

Pastoral letters read in all Catholic churches implored the 16,000 persons in the mountain top Republic to "discard every mirage of indecorous prosperity."

Christian Democratic members of the Italian Parliament planned to demand that the Italo-San Marino border be closed between sunset and daybreak. It was believed likely this would end the gambling enterprise because Italy surrounds San Marino and customers would not be able to enter the tiny republic.
